1. In early July 1947, troops stationed in the Plauen-Oelsnitz (K12-K11) area of Saxony were transferred to Linz, Austria, via Dresden-Filsen-Budweis (Budejovice).
2. These troops, scheduled to be stationed in the Austrian-Bavarian border region, consisted of approximately 25,000 infantrymen, 10,000 motorized troops with 450 to 500 vehicles, and four armored units with 150 tanks each.
3. Approximately 40,000 infantrymen are due to arrive as replacements in Saxony from Poland, where they are still in training. The new troops are said to belong to year classes 1926-1928 and their equipment includes multiple rocket launchers and new 30 mm anti-tank guns.
